THANK YOU TO ALL OF THOSE WHO ALREADY JOINED ME ON PEAKBOT. SO FAR, I AM DOWN ~$1800 IN CLOSED TRADES SINCE INCEPTION ON JULY 17!

Trade what I trade, without lifting a finger, by connecting your brokerage account through PeakBot to my account: https://peakbot.com/intelligent-investing-bot/. Starting at $197/month.

My goal is to average ~$100/day, which is ~$500/week and ~$2,000/month, while knowing full well that not all market environments are conducive to those returns.

My strategy gives the market time to validate my Elliott Wave thesis and avoids being a victim of options' time decay (theta) when wrong. I trade at most 3x per day; positions are rarely >50% of my portfolio; I average down at most 2x (e.g., at the 3rd and 5th waves); and I hedge-trade around a core position if necessary (e.g., at the 2nd and 4th waves). Most trades are swing- or intra-day.

Requirements:

- $10K investment minimum
- Tradier, Schwab, or Tasty Trade account

Today's update will be a little different from what you're used to, as I will try to write a coherent story about the three options we are tracking for the S&P 500, incorporating market breadth, sentiment, and seasonality to reach the most likely conclusion.

We have three Elliott Wave Principle (EWP) counts (and a fourth, "the unknown unknown," aka something I can't foresee yet) because the index has essentially gone sideways for the past 3 months. Yes, the SPX is now trading at the same level as it was in late July. To make matters worse, the NDX is now at mid-May levels, and the DOW just experienced a ~8% correction. So, the markets have been tough as nails and out of sync. Unfortunately, when markets go sideways for a prolonged period, the EWP starts to find a multitude of options because the price action is unclear. Thus, we must remain patient until the smoke clears. Unfortunately, the most important virtues in trading and investing, "patience, discipline, and rationality," are also the ones most people have the least of. We can't help with that, but we can help interpret what the price data tells us.

OPTION 1

As the markets will get closer to a final answer, I can eventually eliminate certain options and focus on a specific one. So, without any further ado, let's start with the larger diagonal we've been tracking for the SPX (note that other indexes are in other wave counts!). See Figures 1 and 2 below.

Since diagonals primarily (though not always, as there are combinations) comprise “abc” advances and declines (1-2-3-4-5 = abc-abc-abc-abc-abc), we are tracking the rally from the September 16 low to the October 6 high as three waves (a = abc), and we count the decline from that high to Friday’s low also as three waves (b = abc). These two waves (a-b) are part of a larger 3rd wave (iii = abc), with W-c to come. We don’t know if W-c will be five or three waves. Either is fine.

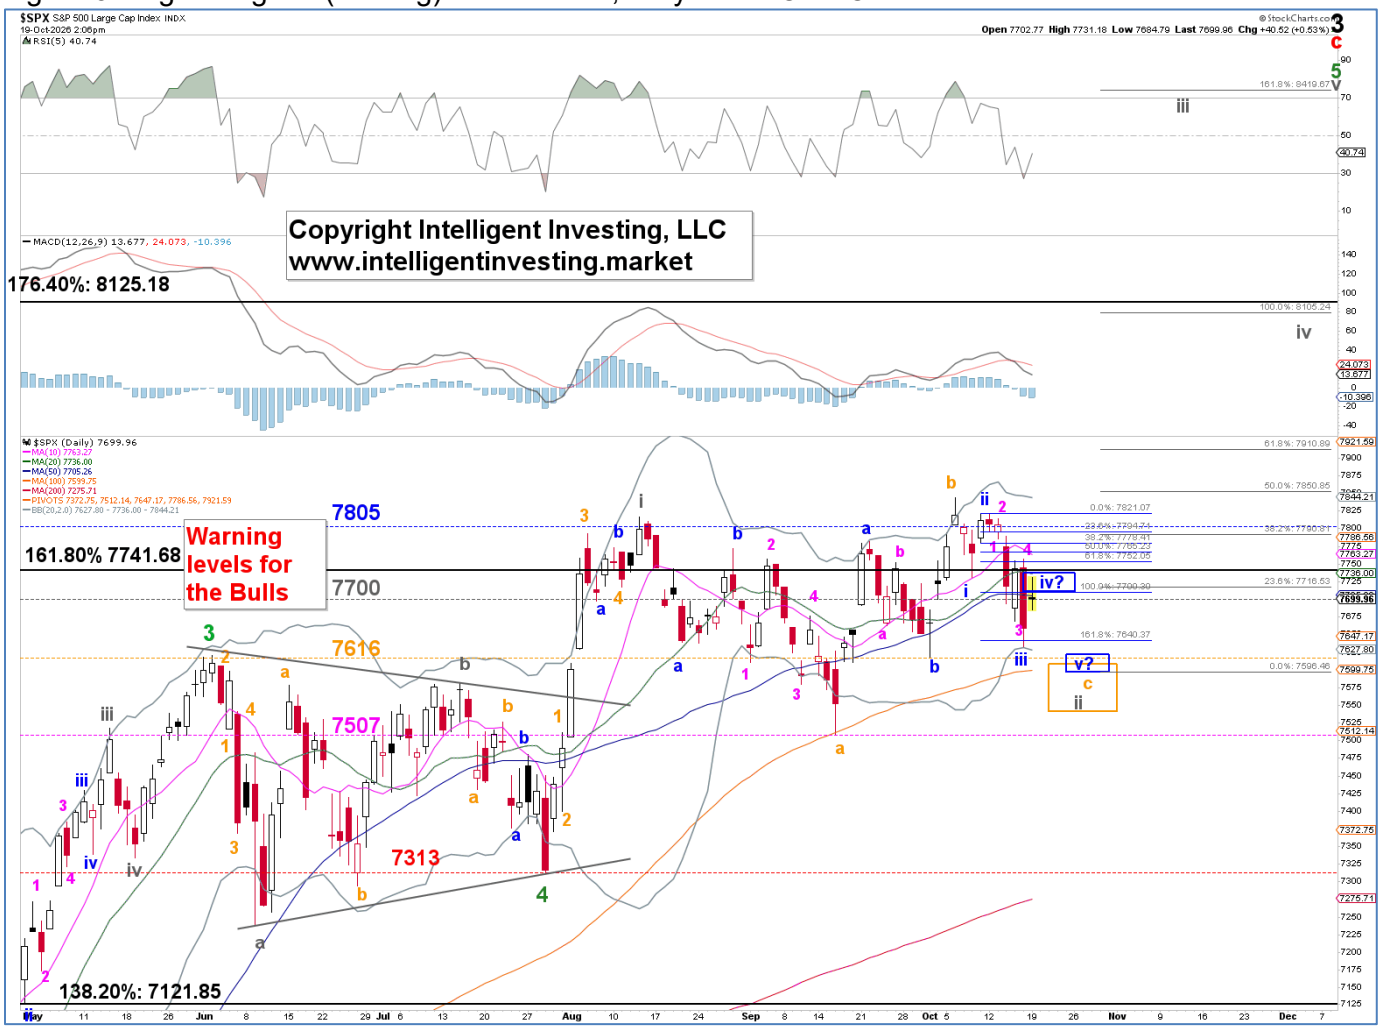

This means that if the September 16 low at 7506 holds, we can let this pattern unfold. The index bottomed right at the lower trend line, which connects the July 29 low with the September 16 low, keeping the diagonal pattern intact.

OPTION 2

The 2nd option is a larger green W-5 to well over 8500, where W-i was the rally from the July 29 low to the August 13 high, and W-ii is now underway, morphing into an irregular (running) flat. We mentioned this option in Friday's update. See Figure 3 below.

Flat corrections (a-b-c) comprise a 3-3-5 pattern. Clearly, the August 13->September 16 decline (W-a) was three waves (abc), where W-c subdivided into five waves (12345). Then the rally to the September 16 high was also three waves (abc), marking the W-b. Since W-b was longer than W-a, it is irregular. Thus, so far, the index has followed a possible flat pattern. Now it needs to complete a five-wave move (i-ii-iii-iv-v) for W-c to complete the W-ii, with an ideal downside target of 7610+/-10, as possibly an irregular running flat: b>a>c. Meanwhile, the blue W-i of W-c ended at 7731.26; Friday's low was right at the 161.80% extension (7638.41 vs 7631.77), and today's high was 7731.28 (W-iii). Thus, today's high could be all the blue W-iv? and W-v to ideally 7610+/-10 can be underway. Above 7731.26, without first going below Friday's low, the Bears' only short-term option is an ending diagonal W-c, with a W-iv that cannot go above 7821.67 (W-ii). If that happens = see Figures 1 and 2!

However, if we get five waves down to that 7610+/-10 level, it disproves the 1st option (the larger ED) because b-waves never comprise five waves! It opens the door to a larger flat 4th wave (a-b-c= 3-3-5 = abc-abc-12345). See Figure 4 below.

In that case, the five-wave rally from the July 29 low to the August 13 high was all of W-5 of W-c of W-3 and not W-i of W-5. Then, like the irregular (running) flat W-ii option shown on the previous page, we have the three-wave decline into the September low as W-a and the three-wave rally to the October 6 peak as W-b. With five waves down (i-ii-iii-iv-v), we will label that W-1 of W-c, and W-2 should then target ~7750+/-25 before an extended W-3 takes hold to 7175+/-50; etc. Here we assume an irregular expanded flat (c>b>a) will take place as a c=2.62x a targets around 7130. Note the 138.20% extension at 7120. But, just as much as the W-3 (and W-b) exceeded the ideal target of 161.80% = 7741.68 by ~100p, the W-c can exceed the 138.20% extension by about the same. That will provide for a ~261.80% W-3 and a ~300% W-5.

Just as in the previous option, "…today's high could be all the gray W-iv and W-v to ideally 7610+/-10 can be underway. Above 7731.26, without first going below Friday's low, the Bears' only short-term option is that of a leading diagonal W-1, with a W-iv that cannot go above 7821.67 (W-ii). If that happens = see Figures 1 and 2!"

While the index can always do something we can't foresee (the unknown unknown), we have three clear options with clear cut-off levels above and below, so we can start narrowing down our options when price reaches those levels.

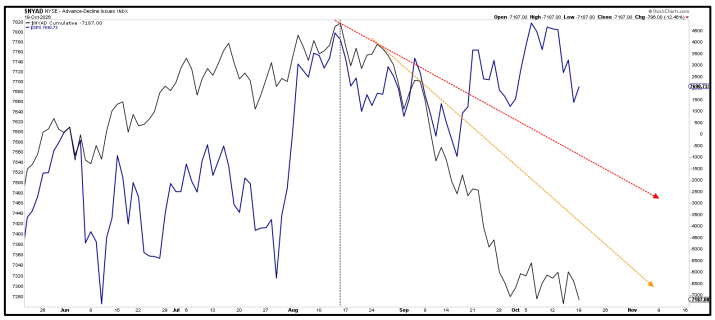

Besides, on the next two pages we've listed the market breadth, sentiment, and seasonality data from Friday again, updated today, and we find the following

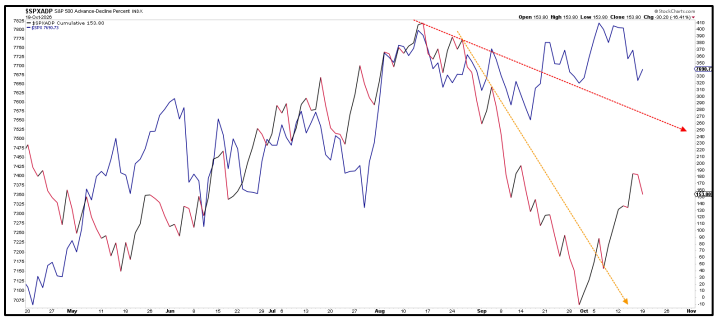

1) The NYAD has yet to confirm a new uptrend, while the SPXAD looks healthier. Thus, the NYAD easily supports the bearish case (3), while the SPXAD supports the two bullish cases (OPTION 1 and 2), which is why we concluded NEUTRAL.
2) The intermediate term trend indicator, based on 52W highs and lows, remains on a sell since September 9. This supports the bearish scenario (OPTION 3)
3) The NYMO and SPXMO continue to mirror the AD's (OPTION 3 and 1, 2; respectively)
4) Extreme sentiment readings, especially bearish (low) levels, are often good contrarian signals. Last week, AAII was well above average for Bears but normal for Bulls. However, the CNN Fear & Greed was at extreme Fear. From a contrarian perspective, this is bullish and supports OPTIONS 1 and 2.
5) The seasonal pattern remains the same and has been reasonably back on track for October.

> It had a low due on 09/30 (on a closing basis). We got 09/30 (technically 10/01). A high was due on 10/06. We got 10/06 (both on a closing basis and as the actual high). Then a low is due, on average, on 10/09; we got 10/08. A high is due around 10/13, a low around 10/19, followed by another high and low around 10/21 and 10/26, respectively. We got the high on 10/12 (but not on a closing basis), and the decline to the ~10/19 low ended on 10/16. The brief (two-day) bounce appears to be underway, and a final decline into EOM is still expected, which could match the five-wave down sequence for OPTIONS 2 and 3. However, both "all years" (shown) and 'mid-term-years-only" (not shown) seasonality point to a Bullish November and December. Favoring OPTION 2.

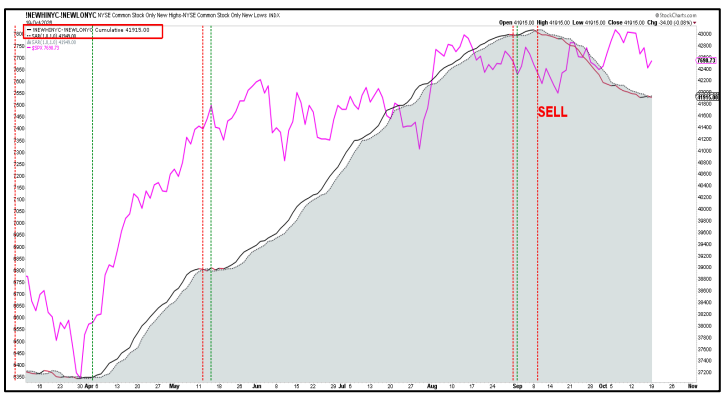

With all the data at hand, OPTION 1 was mentioned three times. OPTION 2 was mentioned 4 times, and OPTION 3 was mentioned three times. Thus, the current data supports OPTION 2 with OPTIONS 1 and 3 as less likely, which is not the same as impossible!

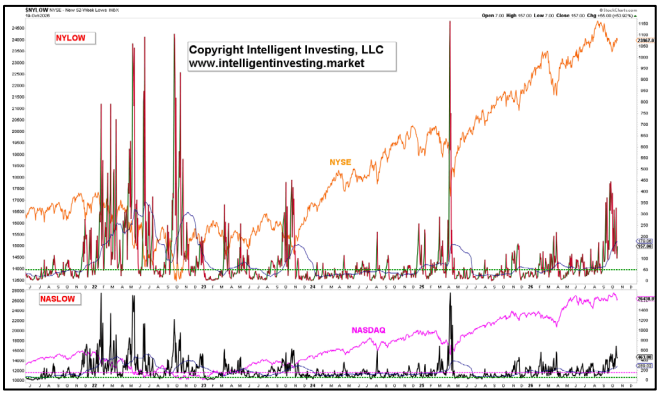

The most important market breadth indicator, the NYAD, continues to struggle and still has a lot of catching up to do, especially compared to the SPX's AD line, which looks more constructive.

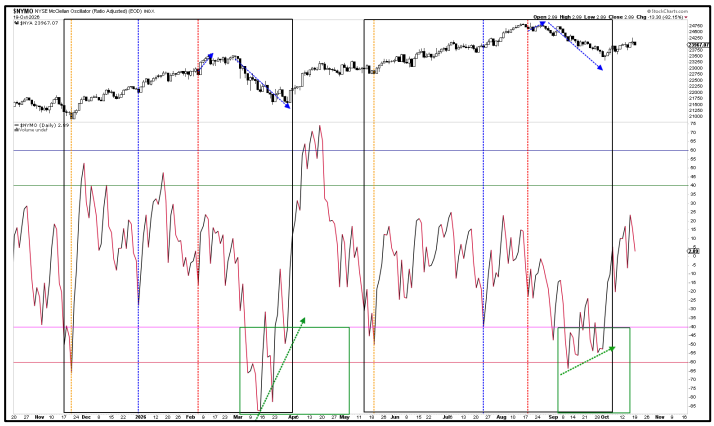

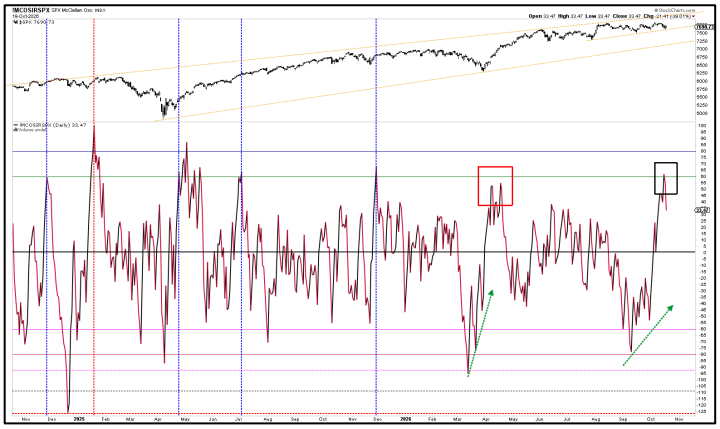

Meanwhile, the 52w new high-based intermediate-term trend indicator remains a sell signal, as the 52w new lows stay elevated.

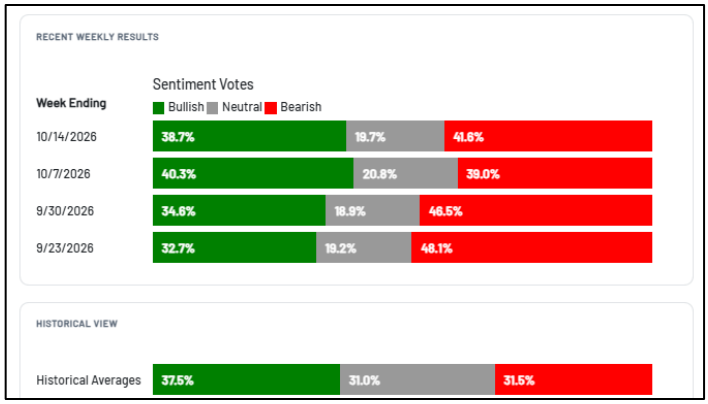

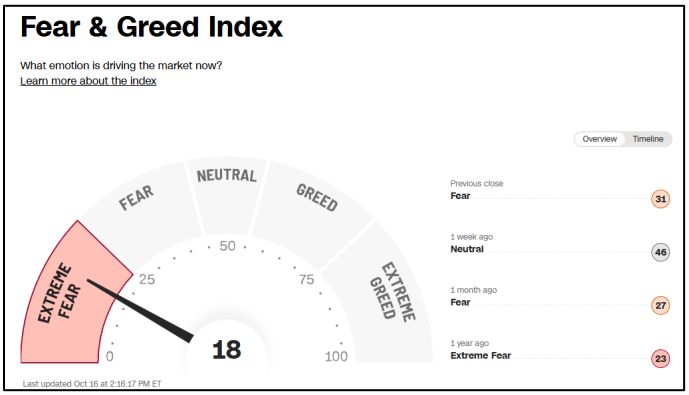

Like the NYAD, the NYMO has work to do, while the SPXMO continues to look healthier than the NYMO, like the SPXAD vs NYAD.

Individual investor sentiment became more Bullish last week, often a contrarian indicator, and turned a bit sourer this week, but nothing too extreme yet. Not shown here, but active money managers (NAAIM) are now much less invested than last week (86%->74%), which is around the long-term average of 74%. Meanwhile, the more technically derived, not-a-true-opinion Fear and Greed index went from Neutral last week to extreme fear today. BULLISH

Seasonality: bearish until EOM, Bullish until EOY.

CURRENT WAVE POSITION

Do or die time for the Bulls as we can now really say that there are enough waves (9) in place since the W-b high in September to consider W-c of W-ii as complete, while the positive divergences (blue arrows) are now screaming off the charts. Thus, if Wednesday's low holds we can allow for W-iii to get started. Below it and 78-80 is back on the table. But honestly, this looks as good as it gets.

Thus, if yesterday's low holds, we can allow W-iii to start, with an ideal target of W-1 at around $4510. If we break below this week's low, we must reassess our work... *BACKTESTED TRADING SYSTEM PERFORMANCES

Our new trading systems work best when you apply the compounding principle, which involves reinvesting some or all your profits into the next trade. The more you compound, the better the returns will be. Please review the tables below.

Do not trade positions bought without the system's signals using the system's trading signals. Additionally, please refrain from entering a position when the trade is already in progress; wait for a new trading signal.

These systems operate entirely independently of our analysis. Do not try to combine or correlate them. They track prices and trends across several parameters, triggering buy, sell, or hold signals based on if/then conditions. Sometimes our analysis is correct while the system is wrong, or vice versa. Or both can be right or wrong. Therefore, these systems complement our analyses and represent the ultimate trading experience: simply execute the signal. Refer to the previous page for what trading really is: a mindless, boring process of execution. Nothing more, nothing less.

The code for these trading systems is available for purchase. Please contact us for pricing details. It is written in Pine Script and can be integrated directly with TradingView, Alpaca, or Interactive Brokers (IBKR), enabling it to manage all your trading needs. Any AI, such as GROK or ChatGPT, can quickly translate code into another language if necessary.
